Job Description:

Position Summary:

Tipping Points Health Coaches will actively work to recruit and consent study participants for a large health services research project. They will work closely with study participants in setting healthy lifestyle goals, behavioral contracts, and engage in collaborative problem solving with community health center patients. This project is a collaboration between AllianceChicago, the Clinical Directors Network, and Weill-Cornell Medicine, and you will work with these entities along with others in this role.

Essential Duties:

- Collaborate with health center site PI, project coordinator, and staff
- Identify and screen eligible patients for participation in project from local community health centers
- Establish rapport with patients, obtain consent and complete enrollment survey (Spanish and/or English) via an in-person interview
- Complete subsequent weekly follow-ups for 12 weeks via phone
- Provide additional support to enrolled patients following the 12-week period, as needed
- Conduct qualitative assessments with participants outside of primary location, as requested
- Facilitate goal setting for self-management using motivational interviewing and other techniques, as trained
- Share self-management plans with the patient's primary care clinician (PCC)
- Maintain continual documentation of activities, action plans, and results while adhering to the policies and procedures in the approved protocol
- Coach patients in effective self-management and problem solving
- Collect data and complete relevant data entry
- Report red flags and other relevant information to the appropriate individuals (PCC, Institutional Review Board, etc.) via adverse event reports
- Participate in weekly calls with Weill-Cornell specialist for intervention fidelity
- Work collaboratively and effectively within a diverse team
- Build and maintain positive working relationships with the clients, providers, supervisors and other staff
- Continuously expand knowledge and understanding of community resources, services and programs provided
- Identify and apply appropriate role definition and skilled boundaries
- Other duties as assigned

Essential Qualities of a Health Coach-Interventionist

- Have an existing relationship with community being served
- A strong desire to help the community

- Empathy
- Persistence
- Creativity and resourcefulness
- Personal strength and courage
- Respectfulness for those being served and the community

Requirements:

- High school degree (Bachelor's or Associates degrees preferred)
- Background check and fingerprinting
- Strong communication, organizational, and PC skills
- Experience working with vulnerable populations, including ethnic and racial minority communities
- Ability to attend a 14-day in-person and 14-day virtual training
- Knowledge in Motivational Interviewing techniques
- Bilingual and Bicultural (Spanish-Speaking) required
- Ability to complete Human Subjects Research training
